North East Biodiesel plant goes live.

After heavy investment, V-Fuels Biodiesel is pleased to announce its new biodiesel production unit is now producing high quality biodiesel at its Northumberland factory.

V-Fuels use mainly Soy Oil, which ensures that the quality of the finished product is to the required standard. Biodiesel has many environmental advantages, including a significant reduction in carbon footprint and decreases in harmful exhaust emissions.

The plant is geared up to produce and deliver around 100,000 tonnes of premium quality biodiesel per annum to the UK market.

Industry Expert Leaves The Dinosaurs Behind.

After months of negotiation, Liquid Management Solutions are pleased to announce the recent appointment of Pete Fisher as Business Solutions Manager.

Peter brings with him a wealth of first hand fuel management experience and industry knowledge. Working for Petrovend UK as Managing Director to his more recent position of Major Account Manager for VBI Triscan, Peter admits he is relishing the challenge of his new role.

"The decision to leave VBI Triscan was not an easy one, but I believe that fuel management companies must now start to look 'outside the box' to provide innovative business solutions to an ever changing market" Said Fisher.

Assisting the strong management team, Peter will be responsible for dealing with Blue Chip clientele, promoting an enviable portfolio of innovative fuel management solutions.

"Recruiting Peter merely strengthens our objective to become recognised as market leaders in a stagnant UK marketplace. His enthusiasm and commitment has already been noticeable across all areas of our business. It will be a pleasure to work alongside Pete again." Said Kevin Taylor, Managing Director.

Oil Prices Rising

The downward move in oil prices at the start of this year has been short-lived.

Crude Oil has again entered the 64-67 dollars per barrel range, which is more than a 25% rise in just a few months.

Charity begins at home, Europe's leaders choose Cactus!

West Midlands Special Needs transport (WMSNT), the largest charitable organisation of its kind in Europe has made a substantial investment decision with LMS to install the Cactus Fuel Management System.

The Birmingham based organisation, responsible for services such as 'Ring and Ride' and 'Taxibus' decided that the project was a priority due to the lack of support and technical guidance from their previous fuel management provider.

Following initial Environmental Compliance Audits that LMS carried out at each of WMSNT's 8 depots, the charity not only commissioned us to carry out certain upgrading work to onsite storage tanks, but decided the time was right to take a fresh approach to fuel management and place their business with a forward thinking provider.

"Our existing fuel management system was not good enough and this was made worse by the supplier's poor levels of service.

LMS have been a breath of fresh air and have guided us through environmental compliance and the fuel monitoring solution from start to finish, we have opted for their innovative Cactus terminal with a TCIP connection, meeting our current and future reporting need".

Des Rogers – Operations Manager, WMSNT.
