Liquid Management Solutions – On top of the World!!

We would like to take this opportunity to say a big “Well Done” to our Managing Director, Kevin Taylor.

On Thursday 28th September at around 6am, Kevin completed the gruelling task of reaching the summit of Mount Kilimanjaro, which stands at 19,335 feet and is the World’s 4th highest mountain.

It’s good to have him back, and as yet we haven’t tired of his “Whilst I was climbing Kilimanjaro.....” stories!

Midlands Company choose Liquid Management Solutions

Midlands haulage company J Hayward and Sons Ltd have chosen Liquid Management Solutions to provide them with an outsourced fuel management system which enables them to concentrate their time on their core activities.

Haywards, based in Walsall for almost a century, still have a firm grip on fuel procurement and other key areas, but have employed Liquid Management Solutions to capture their fuel transactions of both fuel cards and onsite transactions (controlled by Cactus®, featured right)

The client is supplied with weekly or monthly reports, focusing on drivers’ MPG’s, CO2 emissions, or many other fields that the client may wish to pinpoint.

For further information on how Liquid Management Solutions could become your outsourced fuel managers, contact us now.

Fuel theft on the increase

Dozens of police forces throughout Britain have reported a spate of diesel theft in recent weeks as the pump price of the fuel hovers around £1 a litre.

The figures show that in Bedfordshire alone more than 5,000 litres have been stolen and a total of 32 offences have been committed since February. Police say they are extremely concerned, as six of the thefts have taken place within the past two weeks.

The price of fuel is certainly making thefts such as these more tempting for people and maybe encouraging a black market to develop.

The offenders are gaining entry through damaged fences or even manage to scale eight ft high barbed wire fences before forcing fuel caps off vehicles and siphoning off 100 to 600 litres of fuel at a time. It's happening overnight between five pm and seven am.

InstantFit NECK-IT!® saves your fuel from being stolen by organised, opportunistic thieves and regular small scale skims. Use InstantFit NECK-IT!® and quite simply, once your fuel is in, it can't be removed.

Take immediate action against theft today and contact Liquid Management Solutions
